

The Law Office of William H. Lawson owns and maintains this website.

The information contained in this website is provided for informational purposes only. The information provided is not legal advice and should not be construed as legal advice. You should not act or fail to act based on information you read on this website without seeking appropriate professional advice. Nothing contained on this website forms the basis of an attorney-client relationship between you and the Law Office of William H. Lawson or any of its attorneys. If you want or need legal advice, please consult with an attorney directly.

The transmission of information contained on this website, or communications with the Law Office of William H. Lawson via this website do not create an attorney-client relationship between you and the Law Office of William H. Lawson. Any information you disclose to us through this website will not be privileged or confidential unless we have agreed to act as your legal counsel and you have executed a written retainer agreement with the Law Office of William H. Lawson. We have no duty to keep confidential any information you provide to us through this website.

The authors of the content of this website are based in Hawaii, as is the Law Office of William H. Lawson. Other jurisdictions may have laws that differ substantially from Hawaii. We will attempt to keep the information on this website updated, however we make no claims, promises, or guarantees about the accuracy, completeness, currentness, or correctness of the information contained on the website.